BY A CHATTERER.

time more has been done to increase this city's prestige and advance its material growth than was accomplished in the whole preceding year. In that short space of time the agitation of that action Fort Worth made a grant stride towards prominence and commercial supremacy. Fort Worth had arrived at a period in her growth when she had either to go towards or here. she had either to go forward or back-ward; she could not stand still. Progress or retrogression was the problem of the hour, and the solution of this problem lay with the citizens of Fort Worth and none others. Advance-ment or decadence was the question upon which they had to pass. this question they did pass and with-out a moment's hesitation. The citi-zenship of Fort Worth proved itself to be of the right kind of timber and sound to the core.

Much has already been said in praise of the young men of Fort Worth, but there is still room for more. It has onstrated at the public meeting of last means they subscribed more liberally ing, especially for the suffering of a been said that in proportion to their night her determination to do all in to the railroad and manufacturing endesolate woman with a babe in her her power to secure the railroad facilher power to secure the railroad facil- terprises than the capitalists. When it is remembered that the young in a new city this have not been born reared here, and consequently are not bound to the place by the sa-cred ties and dear associations of home, but are men who have left their far-away homes in the older states and have cut themselves loose from all but the tender me, nories of their early lives to seek their fortunes in a new country, their pride in their adopted city and her prosperity as evidenced by their prompt and liberal response to her call for assistance is deserving o more than a passing mention. Fort Worth has a right to be proud of her young men.

There is not enough style and formality about this simple plan of procedure. Several preliminary measures must be seen to before he can actually make the call. First, an epistic must be in-scribed upon gilt-edge paper and dispatched by an emissary of Senegam-bian hue to the object of his attentions by the gentleman wishing to call. If this epistolary document receives a favorable answer the gentle-man considers that he has an "engagement" or that he is party to a contract by virtue of which contract In calling attention to the recent he is entitled solely, undividedly and change of firm made in Mr. Dashwood's popular drug store, we wish to state that Mr. Ossch, who entered as partner, is a druggist of twenty-one years experience, and being a graduate of pharmacy is thereacher any partner.

case where this "engagement" custom obtains. These "engagement," are sacred institutions and anyone who, in all ignorance of offerse, and innocent of nualice, happens to trespass upon one is looked upon as an offender who should be treated with contempt and be made to understand that it would be well for him not to repeat the offense. Let a young man quietly pick himself up and go calling on one of his young lady friends without making an "engagement," and inadvertently hap-pen on another fellow's "engagement." If he were ignorant before, it won't take him long to find out the full meaning of this "engagement." If it does not take a sledge-hammer to drive a hint through his hide, he soon begins to apprehend that he is regarded as a com mon poscher upon some one else' serves, and that his presence elsewhere would probably be more appreciated. If the intruder has any sensitiveness whatever in his constitution, he with draws as soon as ne possibly can with dignity, feeling that the 'lron has en-tered his soul,' and a steely determin-ation in his heart never again to allow

FOR CASH ONLY.

A Dry-Goods House that Will Not Give Thirty Days, Thirty Hours Nor Thirty Minutes Oredit.

For six years we have been on record as a firm that sold goods for each only, and during those six years not a single package has left the house until it had been paid for, and yet we find it necessary every few weeks and sometimes oftener to refuse credit to our friends and patrons. We refuse them, not from an indisposition to accommodate them, but because our experience has taught us that the cash system is infinitely better for both buyer and selier, and that the only way to sell for cash is to credit no one, though he be a millionaire and asks only an hour's time.

We expect to continue as we began After a s'x years' trial are convinced beyond all p sible doubt that any other than 'pay as you go' policy is a ruinous policy, both to him who sells and him who buys. As long as we continue in business we shall sell at bottom prices, but for spot cash only, and every one who took the trouble to read the schedale of credit and cash prices published in this paper a short time since, can understand the truth of what is said when we tell him that the credit sys tem of buying and selling goods is the poor man's greatest curse. And yet while the difference in price ranges from 15 to 50 per cent, the man who sells sustains the greatest loss. It beggars the rich and prevents the poor from rising above their pov-erty. It breeds distrust and dissailsfaction, destroys confidence and makes men and women dishonest. It leads to bankruptcy and ruin, then hangs a veil over the star of hope and bids a man become a peon for life. All of this we know, and knowing it we would be untrue to our selves and our friends if we failed to help them in their efforts to break the fetters forged by the credit system, and come forth in a few years tree men in fact as in manner.
